Helping kids say YES.

Arthritis Foundation camps provide a safe and secure camp experience for children and teens with juvenile arthritis and childhood rheumatic diseases.

JA camps give kids living with juvenile arthritis and other childhood rheumatic diseases the chance to be themselves. Campers develop confidence and self-advocacy skills to manage their arthritis. Our JA camps are medically supervised - healthcare professionals are on site for the duration of camp to tend to your child's needs.

"It completely transformed my child's life. Getting to know other children battling the same struggles really put things into context for him. This is by far his favorite week of summer!"

– JA Parent
